REVIEWER'S PURSUIT

A good reviewer, like a good reporter, answers all or most of these questions: Who? What? Why? Where? When? and How?

A major difference between reviewing and reporting is that the reviewer has much more freedom to express his or her opinions.

In these pursuits your reviews should be kept brief i.e. one or two paragraphs.

Write a brief review on one of these topics:—

- A sports event you have watched live or on television.
- A television documentary you have seen and enjoyed.
- A film you have seen either on T.V., video, or at a cinema.
- A book you have recently read and enjoyed.
